As a former Manhattanite, I've never crossed the Brooklyn Bridge or indulged in a black and white cookie (okay, once), but I have managed to whip up creative confections for myriad agencies across the country—all while wearing many hats (creative director, designer, scribe, referee, font-whisperer, strategist, diplomat, exorcist) and without ever losing my keen sense of humor (okay, once). In my spare time, I'm watching far too many movies, eating far too few vegetables, and recalling just enough conversational Japanese to comment on how delicious the fried octopus is this morning.
